Guide for Authors

Preferred length is between 2,000 and 5,000 words, excluding notes and bibliography.

We follow the Chicago Manual of Style (16th Edition). That is, author-date system for in-text references.

Example:

(Author 2020, 199).

Bibliography should be listed in alphabetical order

Examples:

Book, single author: Crisp, Oliver D. 2015. Jonathan Edwards among the Theologians. Grand Rapids and Cambridge: Wm. B Eerdmans Publishing Co.

Edited book: Perry, John. 2014. "Where did utilitarianism come from?" In God, the Good, and Utilitarianism, edited by John Perry, 15-52. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.

Journal Article: Leidenhag, Mikael. 2019. "Does naturalism make room for Teleology? The Case of Donal Crosby and Thomas Nagel." American Journal of Theology and Philosophy 40: 5-19.

Bible Citations: Should indicate version used. E.g. Luke 4:18 NRSV.

Given the interdisciplinary scope of this catalogue, it is important to clearly define key terms.

Footnotes can be used but should be so sparingly. Should only be used for explanatory purposes.

Images are allowed, but the Author is responsible to secure relevant permissions.
